We cordially invite researchers and PhD students to submit papers to be presented at the workshop. Please see below for further details concerning the workshop schedule and the submission process.

Workshop schedule

We invite submissions relating to any of the following topics: work motivation, workplace commitment, organizational justice, psychological contract, organizational trust, organizational identity, decision-making, organizational effectiveness, corporate social responsibility, diversity, intergenerational differences at work, role management, social exchange theories, employment relationships, leadership, work and health, work-home balance, high performance work systems, HRM policies and practices, compensation management, and socialization. Papers exploring new questions in OB-HRM research, with a qualitative or a quantitative perspective, are also encouraged.

We welcome papers that adopt a theoretical or an empirical perspective (quantitative or qualitative) on these topics. Submissions may be research-in-progress, a draft manuscript, or a paper that is ready to be submitted to a journal. PhD students are invited to present advances in their doctoral research projects in order to stimulate discussion and feedback. All papers selected for presentation will be reviewed and commented on by two of the invited guests.

Authors will have 10 minutes to present their research, followed by 20 minutes for discussion, which will include both specific feedback from invited guests and an open discussion with the audience.
